The Irank, manly and patriotic letter of General Arthur accepting the nomination meets with universal approval. He discusses the question that now confront Republicans in a way that satisfies every one that he is fully competent to fill the high position to which has party will elevate him in November.

The Democratic committee are disturbled at the condition of things in Virginia. It is by no means all quiet across the Potomac and unless they are able to reconcile discordant party elements that are now bitterly opposing each other, the vote of the state will be cast for Garfield and Arthur. The Republican committee are on the alert and laying plans for a thorough canvass of the old dominion by some of our most cloquent stump speakers.

THE SORROWS OF GENIUS.

The night is wanning, and the hush of inspiration makes the sanctum solemn. The nows editor has just written inuself a New York dispatch, telling all about the sea surpent. The political editor is just closing a crusher fail of blood and thunder, and winding up with a terrific exposure. The proof reader is opening a new case of pencils for the purpose of marking all the errors in six lines of proof. The funny man, from the tearful expression of his sorrowful countenance, is known to be in the thross of a joke. The joke is born, and this is its name.

"A man died in Atchesson, Kan, last week from enting diseased buffalo ment. A clear case of suicide—death from cold bison."

A clear case of suicide—death from cold bison."

Enter intelligent compositor—"This Atcheson item, what is this last word."

To him, the funny man.—"Bison."

Intelligent compositor—"Bison."

Funny man.—"Yes.

The intelligent compositor demands to be informed what it means, and the painstaking furny man, with tears, explains the joke, and with great claboration shows forth how it is played on "cold pison."

"Oh, yes," says the intelligent compositor, and retires. Bets it up "cold pison."

Funny man groans, takes the proof, seeks the intelligent compositor and explains that he wishes not only to make a play on the word "pison," but also on the word "pison."

FOREPAUGH'S FIFTEEN ELE-PHANTS.

PHANTS.

All introduced and performed by Adam Forepaugh, Jr., a youth only eighteen years of age. The youngest, most gifted and herole trainer of wild beasts in the world. He can be seen at each exhibition, performing more elephants than ever were owned or exhibited by any show on earth. Their performance presents one of the most thrilling and amusing spectacles of animal sagacity ever witnessed. These representatives from the land of Brahms, Shiva and Vishnu were formerly used in the sacred and spectacular displays, customs unbounded applause, wonder and admiration, of all who witness their marvelous maneuvers.—Philadelphia Record.

Forepaugh will exhibit his great show on Saturday, Aug. 7th.

NATURAL HISTORY.

"What attrodious looking animal is that?"

"That is the editor."

"Indeed! Are editors very dangerous?"

"Sometimes. When cornered up they have been known to be quite combative, and again they have been known to go through a convenient back window. Generally they are quite mild and passive."

"When are they the most dangerous?"

"When intruded udon by a book agent who wants asweatly line local for a forty cent book, or when intruded upon by a post with a few verses about genile spring.

"Are editors cross to each other?"

"Only when separated by several blocks of buildings."

"Do they often have fearful combats with each other?"

"Occasionally when they go out in different directions and meet by chance."

"Are editors ever cowhided?"

"Sometimes the little ones are, but the big ones are rarely molested."

"Do editors ast?"

"They do. It was formerly supposed that they ate at long intervals but it is a authenticated fact that they can eat a god deal whenever they can get it."

"What kind of food do they like most?"

they won't refuse qual on toast, fried crab or roast turkey about Christmas time, they have been known to make a repast on a dish of blue pike caught on Sunday."
"Do editors go free into shows?"
They do when they give a dollar and a half local for a twenty five cent ticket.
"Are all editors bald?"
"No, only married ones are bald, but let us pass on, the editor does not like to be stared at."

The chaplain of the British naval vessel Comus thus describes his visit to the Crozet Islands, a group in the Indian Ocean: "The sensation on landing was like that probably experienced by Robinson Crusoe. The birds and other animals did not dread man, and did not move out of our way. We found three kinds of penguins—the jackass penguin, the king penguin, and the crested penguin. They stalk about in troops like a school or a regiment of soldiers; they pecked at our legs as we walked along, and their tactics quite puzzled our large Spanish dog, who barked at them, but gave them a wide berth. It was the moulting season, and most of the old birds looked very disreputable, with their tattered feathers and semi-naked bodies. Wild ducks and test popped up their heads through the long grass, but searcely took the trouble to fly away. Sea hens and other birds were away. Sea hens and other birds were easily knocked down with a stick; while pretsy white birds like rock pigeons, call-ed snow-drops, flew to welcome us with a little chirping note, and could be caught by the hand."

Invaluable for Pites and Kidney Bis-

Swanton, Vt., Sept. 19th.

I suffeced greatly for years from piles, and tried various remedies for relief without success until I used Kidney Wort. If the disease shows any symptoms of returning as has been the case, I have mover falled to check it by the use of this medicine! I have a son about neven years old who had for years uniformly wet his bed nights and all the prescriptions of different physicians were ineffectual in checking it. I was assured by a physician that Kidney wort was just the medicine to cure him, and sure grouph a trial was complished. and sure enough, a trial was completely successful. I regard the medicine invalu-able for piles and kidney diseases. Samual Bullard.
